Two Seminars in Temple, NH on 30 March 2012

Friendship Hall ~ 17 Main Street ~ Temple, NH (near Peterborough)

Presenter – Honey Hastings, lawyer-mediator

Attorney Hastings has 30 years of family law experience. She regularly presents workshops on family law for mediators, guardians ad litem, lawyers, and mental health professionals.

Legal Updates for Family Law Professionals

9:00 am – 12:15 pm

This program will review relevant changes in family law in the last 4 years, with emphasis on changes in the most recent 12 months. The materials will include case summaries, new statutes, and new court/administrative rules and how they impact the work of divorce professionals. This has been a big year in the legislature for family law and ADR; find out what has passed, what is still pending and what was rejected. Questions will be taken throughout and group discussion encouraged.

Practical Ethics:

Supporting Self-Determination in Mediation

1:00 pm – 4:15 pm

This practice-oriented workshop focuses on self-determination, the key principle in mediation. It will address self-determination throughout the process, including: marketing a mediation practice, intake and screening, structuring the process, role of lawyers and other third parties. Also to be covered, practical approaches to explaining “confidentiality” and its limitations to clients. Materials will include sample forms, form letters, and client education materials.
